Anna's ability to respond and adapt to often challenging circumstances is central to her success in securing valuable permissions for her clients.

Anna has worked across Central London for the last 18 years in both the public and the private sector. Having started as a council planner at the London Borough of Camden she moved to the private sector in 2004 where she has gained extensive experience of leading large multi-disciplinary projects with a focus on residential, hotel, commercial and mixed use developments.

As well as working for a range of private sector developers Anna has also worked on a number of Council-led projects, in particular promoting development opportunities for Council land assets as part of Camden's Community Investment Programme. She also provides specialist advice to private residential clients, often with a specific heritage focus.

Anna's experience across public and private sectors has assisted in her ability to form strong professional relationships both within the project team and with the Local Planning Authority, enabling her to secure planning permission and optimise development value for her clients.
