

Rob Tutt

Project Manager,
Archaeology

DD: 020 3435 4214

M: 07769 218 565

E: rtutt@iceniprojects.com

Rob is an archaeological Project Manager who has extensive practical experience of both urban and rural archaeology of various periods in the commercial sector

As a Project Manager, Rob is able to guide his clients through the planning process and complete projects to time and budget. He is experienced in client-based consultancy, risk assessment, detailed evaluation and mitigation design, fee proposal and resource planning. He can manage a range of projects from small evaluations and recording projects through to archaeological excavations on complex infrastructure schemes and city centre redevelopment sites.

Rob has worked on numerous projects across Britain, France and Spain and has an excellent knowledge of a range of archaeological excavation and recording techniques. His successfully managed projects include; The Old Post Office in Kingston; the Isle of Grain redevelopment; the Woolwich Ferry Project and the In & Out Hotel Piccadilly, as well as multiple projects on the complex Thames Tideway Tunnel scheme.

Previous to IcenI, Rob was a Project Manager at MOLA (Museum of London Archaeology) and has worked as a field archaeologist, Senior Archaeologist and Project Officer at several archaeological companies across the UK on some of their most prestigious projects.